

21ViaNet Named China Technology Fast 50 Company

Nov. 6, 2008

On Oct. 31, 2008, 21ViaNet has been named 2008 Technology Fast 50 Companies in China by Deloitte, recognizing its achievement and market success. As pointed out by Charles Yen, Managing Partner of Deloitte China, “the selection of 21V is also a demonstration that the Internet infrastructure services, as one sector of hi-tech industries in China, are marching into its growing speed and importance”.

Commenting on this announcement, the Company said, “We are honored to receive the renowned award for the first time. It is closely related to 21V’s steady strategic planning, and is more rewarding for those building this “digital empire”, an empire not built overnight, nor in a one or two years, but over a dozen years’ growth out of surviving hardships while accumulating valuable experience. It also drives us to continue our pursuit of business growth and operations excellence. We are committed to achieving sustained and differentiated growth in the long run.”
